ANDREW RUBIN
Washington, DC

Andrew P. Rubin is a community development and infrastructure finance tax attorney. His practice is focused on helping nonprofits and state, local, and tribal governments finance development and redevelopment projects that support local communities.

Andrew's toolbox includes the full spectrum of tax-advantaged financing tools, including tax-exempt bonds, private activity bonds, 501(c)(3) bonds, new markets tax credits (NMTC), low-income housing tax credits (LIHTC), historic tax credits (HTC), property assessed clean energy (PACE & C-PACE), state and local tax incentives and tax increment financing (TIF), public-private partnerships (P3), and government loan guarantees (BIA, HUD, USDA) that can be used to fund infrastructure, transportation, affordable housing, community services, health clinics and hospitals, schools, and libraries.

Andrew also has a robust state and local tax practice, regularly navigating the complex map of state and local taxes across the Mountain West (focusing on Arizona, Colorado, Montana, North Dakota, Utah, and Wyoming), including sales and use taxes, transaction privilege taxes, severance taxes, and Arizona's speculative builders tax.
