CAM CARPANZANO

Denver, CO

During her undergraduate studies, Cam co-founded a philanthropy to help fund pancreatic cancer research and went on to graduate with Bachelors' degrees in Pre-medicine and Psychology.

Immediately out of college, she worked in an oncology lab while maintaining the intent to go to medical school. However, having discovered an unwavering desire to serve the most vulnerable, she began working with high-acuity populations.

During the pandemic, Cam recognized the exponential demand for services for our unhoused neighbors. As a member of the LGBTQIA+ community, it is increasingly evident that marginalized groups facing homelessness encounter unique, systemic barriers that tend to keep them the furthest away from opportunity.

Cam aims to address the needs of TDP's diverse population by increasing accessibility to resources, fostering inclusivity and radical acceptance, and empowering guests to advocate for their physical and emotional well-being.
